The right amount of water pressure and flow is critical to protecting pipes, preventing loss of prime and avoiding dead head conditions.

That’s why you need the iQPump® from Yaskawa. The most intelligent pump controller available gives you complete control of your irrigation needs for water land management resulting in lower installation costs, simpler operations and greater energy savings. The iQPump® can be easily integrated into any pump station, or retrofitted into an existing system.

When the right amount of pressure and flow is critical, call Yaskawa.
